DESCRIPTION OF THE BOOK THE GARDEN OF SORROWS

Fourteen mesmerising fables and the etchings they inspired draw us back to our origins in a garden of sorrow and exile, death and renewal, beauty and melancholy. John Hughes re-imagines a series of fables in which Australian animals take on human qualities, as thief and actor, warrior and poet, farmer and merchant. These are reverse fables - in the way that the Antipodes reverse northern hemisphere logic - that cast us back to the flux at the beginning of the world; inchoate nature, the world in a state of formation, the garden and the inferno. These are New World stories. Accompanied by artist Marco Luccio's darkly wry etchings, this collaboration between two artists is as unique as the stories it contains.

The Garden of Sorrows is an astonishing collaboration between two creators: the award-winning John Hughes and the artist Marco Luccio. The book is a collection of fourteen fables that invert Aesop's Fables and their successors, taking the reader back to the beginnings of time when the world was in a state of flux and animals were yet to acquire the human qualities that we associate with them. The Garden of Sorrows is an illustrated book for adults that is beautiful and dark. I highly recommend it to people who like short, interesting stories that have artwork that adds to the reader's experience of the story. The Garden of Sorrows is our new work in development and an exciting new collaboration we are embarking on with writer, John Hughes, and artist, Marco Luccio. At The Author, the Artist & the Puppeteer, our very own Andy Freer will discuss the journey of adapting Hughes' mesmerising collection of fables that explore the animal origins of human traits. Fourteen mesmerising fables and the etchings they inspired draw us back to our origins in a garden of sorrow and exile, death and renewal, beauty and melancholy. The morning brings an ache that moves around each day A back, a knee, a shoulder - knuckles swollen, as if I'd won the fight. I ramble along the path with a limp and an unfortunately located bite from an insect that was there before me but as revenge, won't be there after. ... In Jewell's debut novel, a woman grieving her son's death in the first world war meets a magnetic preacher who unbalances her marriage. For farm wife Isabel Fuller, life is an almost continuous round of daily chores: baking, cleaning, laundering, feeding the hens, doing dishes and caring for her. Marco Luccio was invited by acclaimed Australian writer John Hughes to respond to 14 original fables about Australian animals that undergo a transformation to become human. When Jesus prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane, he prayed the lament of laments. It was the beginning of his agony for us, and an example for all who would suffer in his name. It connects the Castle Corridor with the Clock Tower and is the only place where the portal to the Chaotic Realm can be found. the agony in the garden Jesus comes with his disciples to the garden of Gethsemane and prays to be delivered from his Passion, but most of all, to do the Father's will. Let us pray that Christ might hear the prayers of all who suffer from the culture of death, and that he might deliver them from the hands of their persecutors. In the garden, why do you think that Jesus was overwhelmed with sorrow? How were the disciples' actions part of a larger picture that was developing? How might Jesus' actions in the garden be instructive for each of us when we face a deep trial?
